Accepting What Happens

What are you still arguing with?

READING · TWO SHORT PASSAGES

Epictetus, Enchiridion 8: don't demand that things happen as you wish; wish them to happen as they do. Seneca, Letter 107: fate leads the willing and drags the unwilling. See the wiki's Accepting Reality.

BEFORE THE MEETING

Announce on your Substack with the question above. Ask members to think of one thing they wish had gone differently.

Open · 10	Read · 10	Discuss · 45	Practice · 15	Close · 10
Ground rules; welcome newcomers	Aloud, together	The questions below	Name it, release it	One takeaway each

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. What event are you still arguing with in your head?
2. Is accepting something the same as approving of it?
3. Seneca says fate leads the willing and drags the unwilling. Which have you been lately?
4. Can acceptance turn into passivity? Where's the line?
5. What became possible the last time you stopped resisting something?

PRACTICE THIS MONTH

Accepting reality. When an "if only" starts, name the fact plainly, notice what you're demanding, and ask what virtue requires now.

FACILITATOR'S MOVE

"Is that in your control?" Separate what's already happened from what's still yours to choose.

NOTES